CUSTAV STRUBE, who wrote the opera, "The Captive," is shown giving a polishing touch to the score. It has worked on the difficult but melodious composition intermittently for the past 20 of his 71 years. A former conductor of the Boston Symphonys

"pop" concerts and leader of the Baltimore Symphony, Strube now teaches music at N.Y.

You can defy the cold blasts of winter and the sweltering heat of summer when you ride in the new "weather - proofed" Oldsmobile. Roof, floor and doors are scientifically insulated to keep out extremes of temperature. Fisher No-Draft Ventilation circulates fresh air without annoying drafts. Provision is also made for the simple installation of a heater and the heat can be directed against the windshield for de-frosting. Here is all-weather comfort you can start to enjoy now with a 1938 Oldsmobile.

Oldsmobile smooths out the rough roads with its famous Knee-Action Wheels that "step over" bumpe and holes. This gliding ride is further enhanced by Oldsmobile's Dual Ride Stabilizers that hold the car level on curves and turns-Hydraulic Shock Absorbers that add to riding comfort and Center Control Steering for easier hand-ling. Oldsmobile's spacious interiors provide plenty of leg room, arm room and shoulder room -and the front seats are instantly adjustable, backward or forward. You ride in new comfort in the
